GREEN LIVING tip..

April is looming, and I thought it would be helpful to update you on the resumption of soft plastic recycling by The Packaging Forum. Judging by the number of queries and conversations I have had, we all clearly loved our weekly trip to that supermarket recycling bin:) They say "We are planning to re-start collections in April initially in a reduced number of regions. Phasing in the re-start helps us to introduce new logistical arrangements, quality controls and assist balancing collection with our ability to process materials". However, like you I am sure, the disappearance of those wonderfully convenient bins served a great purpose and resulted in dramatic improvements in my tote and mesh bags.
